Course Description:

The course aims to familiarize students with the fundamentals of film appreciation, without delving into the complexities of filmmaking and critical analysis. The course examines the evolution of film from its early days to contemporary cinema, highlighting significant movements from around the world. It exposes students to various genres in contemporary Indian and international films, allowing them to watch and appreciate these works. The course also encourages students to analyse films within their cultural, social, and historical contexts, fostering a deeper understanding of how cinema reflects and influences society. By the end of the course, students will be equipped with the knowledge and tools to critically evaluate films and articulate their insights effectively.

Course Description:

This course explores the complex world of visual media, examining how images and visual narratives shape our understanding of culture, society, and individual identity. Students will study a variety of visual media forms, including photography, film, television, digital media, and art, analysing their impact and significance. The course will introduce theoretical frameworks for critically engaging with visual texts, understanding their production, dissemination, and reception.

Course Description:

Poetry in English is designed to provide students with an understanding of various poetic utterances from different historical periods and cultural contexts. The course will cover a range of literary pieces and creative approaches. The students will explore the diversity of literary expressions and develop essential skills for interpreting and appreciating literature. Students will examine key elements of literary analysis. In addition, students will engage with critical perspectives and theoretical frameworks that enhance their understanding of literature as both art and cultural artifact. This course serves as foundation for further study in literature and related disciplines.

Course Prerequisite: Proficiency in English language.

Course Outcomes:

| CO No. | Expected Outcome  | Learning Domains |
|--------|---|------------------|
| 1      | Students, through exposure to a variety of poems across different periods, and cultural contexts, will understand and appreciate and critically analyse diverse forms of utterances.                      | U                |
| 2      | Students will understand the cultural and historical contexts in which poems were produced, including how social, political, and economic factors determine both the content and reception of literature. | An               |

Course Description:

Prose in English is designed to provide students with an understanding of prose narratives from different historical periods and cultural contexts. The course will cover a range of literary and critical approaches. The students will explore the diversity of literary expressions and develop essential skills for interpreting and appreciating literature. Students will examine key elements of literary analysis. In addition, students will engage with critical perspectives and theoretical frameworks that enhance their understanding of literature as both art and cultural artifact. This course serves as a foundation for further study in literature and related disciplines.

Course Prerequisite: Proficiency in English language.

Course Outcomes:

| CO No. | Expected Outcome  | Learning Domains |
|--------|---|------------------|
| 1      | Students will understand, appreciate, and critically analyse diverse forms of linguistic expressions.   | U                |
| 2      | Comprehend the cultural and historical contexts in which literary narratives were produced, including how social, political, and regional factors influence both content and reception. | U                |

Course Description:

The course introduces students to the expanding domain of English literatures. Moving beyond the canon, the course explores how English has evolved into a global literary language. Students will engage with texts from different geographies, social positions, and mediums — indigenous, regional and diasporic. The course foregrounds the processes of canon formation, the role of translation, and the significance of both local and global perspectives in shaping English literary studies.

Course Prerequisite: Nil

Course Outcomes: The students will be able to
